The Carmel Unified School District Recreation Commission voted four-one Tuesday afternoon to recommend that the school board deny the Carmel Youth Center's request of $5,000 as the school district's contribution to the center's $17,000 budget.

The school board will act Wednesday night.

Since its founding 12 years ago, the youth center has received from the school district the amount budgeted for the center's director's salary.

The school recreation board refused to give the reason for its action to John Chitwood, City Council representative on the Youth Center Adult Board, when he asked, "Is it because of the budget?" The board also decided against sending "a covering letter" to the school board.

From their comments during the meeting, we feel that they have several reasons which arise out of lack of information or understanding. None of them were here when the youth center was built and when the school board of that time decided to assume responsibility for the director's salary item in the youth center budget. Every question asked at Tuesday's meeting, was asked and resolved 12 years ago. Every alternative suggestion heard Tuesday and we are hearing around town, was proposed and rejected then. Nor has the operation of the youth center changed in the intervening 12 years. There is nothing new to justify a change of policy, only new people who are either lacking in information or have different attitudes and values from the people of Carmel who built the youth center.

Dr. Grant Fletcher Tuesday afternoon expressed the opinion that school district funds should not be contributed to a "private" institution, over which the school district has no control.

He also stated that the youth center should be run by a certificated director. (this means school teacher certification; the director has a certificate that satisfies state requirements for operating a youth center.)

Dr. Fletcher's first comment, and it is fundamental, involves the questions we have been hearing the past several months; why isn't the youth center a part of the school recreation program, or under the jurisdiction of the city? Why is it a private, independent institution; especially why is it independent?

The youth center, a non-profit corporation, is under the legal jurisdiction of its adult board of directors which is made up of a representative from each of the service clubs, the Carmel Woman's Club, the AWVS, the PT-A, the city council and the school district, etc. It is about as "private" as the Boy Scouts or the Girl Scouts or the Red Cross.

The center was built by indivi-

Teachers of adult literacy know perhaps better than anyone else how a little learning can light up a whole personality. Learning to write can set free a shower of imagery from a primitive poet.

Learning to read usually fires personal pride even to the point of changing the appearance. Shabbiness is exchanged for neatness and suspicious withdrawal for an outgoing friendliness.

A special mark of the newly literate adult may be the wearing of a pencil behind the ear. It's his badge of achievement.

Two well-known Carmelites who have volunteered much time and thought for the past year to extending literacy where it is sadly lacking within the boundaries of continental United States are Joyce and William G. Bishop.

"We became interested in this after visiting the Boyers at Valle de Bravo during a trip to Mexico last year," Joyce explains.

(The Boyers, Gilbert and Louise, also of Carmel, have worked for a number of seasons at the Casa de Alfabetacion, Laubach Literacy Center at Valle de Bravo. Accounts of their work have been carried in past issues of the Pine Cone.)

"The stories of how literacy affects new learners come both from our first-hand observance and from our attendance at workshops in San Jose, which the LARK foundation conducts for prospective teachers and workers in the literacy movement.

"We need not only people to teach but people to prepare material to be used by the teachers," Mrs. Bishop added, and explained that much of her work on the project now is along these lines. She helped launch and helps edit and prepare the art work for a new magazine, Talking on Paper, which is circulated among the 26 LARK literacy centers in seven states. It offers material for use in teaching and news of improved methods tried with success by individual LARK teachers.

The three-year-old LARK organization, which incorporates many of the Laubach teaching methods and the Laubach charts in its own curriculum, was founded by Mary C. Wallace of Yakima, Washington, in order to help solve the problem of the ten million adults in this country who are not literate in English (though some, but not all, are literate in

Carmel High School Class Of '61 Pursues Knowledge In College

For the past two weeks many members of the Class of 1961 at Carmel High School have been packing luggage and saying goodbye to friends and families before leaving to enroll as freshmen in universities and colleges elsewhere. Next week, registered, they will be attending classes. Over 50 of their classmates began studies two weeks ago at Monterey Peninsula College. Eight have enlisted in the Armed Services. Twelve are working at various jobs. One is married and another plans to marry next month.

Those who are in Berkeley at the University of California are Bruce Bennett, Sally Campbell, Corey Chapman, Gudney Eide, Gwen Meyer, Kent Olsen, Tony Shaurer, Gary Sciutto, Ruth Stevens, Gerald Taylor and Jane Tetley.

Sharon Heathman is enrolled at the University of California at Davis: Gay Antoncich, Judy Arnot, Franklin Johnston and Dianne Whelan at the University of California at Santa Barbara.

California Polytechnic College students in San Luis Obispo are Layton Theis, Joy Fehring, Nikki Shorey, Mardi Lloyd, Paul Jones and John Odello.

Stanford freshmen this year will

WORLD LIT CLASS TONIGHT

Carmel Adult School's World Literature Class starts tonight, 7:30 o'clock, Room 18 at the High School, and will be held each Thursday thereafter.

This is the highly popular class of two years ago. Mrs. Mariquita Brey was not free to give it last year, but has managed to find time for it this term.

New Building Does Not Preclude Fenton Garage

Carmel planning commissioners, in study session yesterday afternoon, looked at plans for two new buildings in the business district. One was a three-story French restaurant and pastry shop to be situated on the Carmel Plaza parking lot, immediately behind existing structures along Mission Street. The French provincial-type building of two stories and basement with a balcony for outside dining will occupy the present Mission Street entrance to the parking lot. Plans are to move the driveway south of the new construction. The third story will be hidden from public view along street frontage.

Building Inspector Floyd Adams speculated that the new development might mean that Leslie C. Fenton had abandoned the parking garage proposal included in original Carmel Plaza plans, unless the restaurant building later were razed or moved.

A. W. Clark, Carmel Plaza Corporation representative, said this morning that the building is planned so that it may easily be moved if a parking garage is constructed, as proposed, at the Carmel Plaza site. Permission to build the parking garage was granted the Plaza but subsequent litigation has delayed construction.

Proprietors of the French restaurant and patisserie will be Elian and Pierre Boissiere, Mr. Clark stated. He added that another small restaurant is planned for the Plaza parking lot. This will be Hilmi-Istanbul, a small structure with minarets; Hilmi Voskay, proprietor. The Gobi Inn, a recently opened Oriental dining spot, is situated on Plaza property across from the planned French and Turkish restaurants.

The second set of plans was for a two-story medical-dental building to be built by Dr. A. Carol McKenney on the west side of Mission Street across from the Plaza parking lot. Modern in style, the building will have for lease on each floor two doctors' or dentists' offices and a common reception room.

Commissioners also heard Leo Tanous, Carmel Business Association representative, describe lighting planned by two young Monterey Peninsula College students for the shopping district during the Christmas season.

Under a new lighting ordinance provision, planning commissioners must review all outside illumination in the business district. Yesterday Vice Chairman Fred Keeble, presiding in the absence of Chairman Herbert Blanks, referred the matter to the Design Review Committee for study and report next Wednesday afternoon.

The two young men want to arrange with individual shops on Ocean Avenue to hang strings of outside colored lights on buildings. Mr. Tanous assured commissioners that each string would not contain more than 25 bulbs of seven and a half watt strength and there would be only one string allotted to each shop entering into the business agreement with the young men.

Next week planning commissioners will hear a land use committee

Briefs...

Registration at Monterey Peninsula College reached an alltime high this week, according to Ralph Smith, dean of students, who reports 1,315 fulltime students are attending classes. This is approximately a ten percent increase over last fall when the number of fulltime students was 1192.

Chief Justice Phil S. Gibson, chairman of the Judicial Council of the State of California, has designated the Honorable Harold Jacoby of Carmel Highlands, retired Superior Court Judge from Contra Costa County, to serve as the third judge of Monterey County's Appellate Department until the end of this year. In January, Monterey County's permanent third Superior Court Judge will be appointed as provided by recent legislation.

Judge Jacoby bought the Ramsey house in Carmel Highlands in 1957 for a vacation home. Two years later, he retired after 18 years as Superior Court Judge in Contra Costa County and came to the Highlands with Mrs. Jacoby to live permanently.

He held his first hearing Friday on Monterey County's appellate calendar.

Judge Jacoby is a graduate of the University of California law school, Boalt Hall, and received a J.D. degree also from Boalt. He was in private practice in Oakland for 17 years and was associated with the district attorney's office in Contra Costa County for six years. A Democrat, he received his appointment to the Superior Court Bench of Contra Costa County from Governor Cuthbert L. Olson.

Judge and Mrs. Jacoby have a daughter, Mrs. Gloria Mater of Lafayette. They formerly lived in the Kensington area of Contra Costa County.

CARMEL JUNIOR-VARSITY WINS PG JAMBOREE

Coach Fred Rainer's well-drilled junior-varsity football squad put 41 points on the board before the varsity competition began as the Carmel High gridders clipped the Breakers, 43 to 12, last Friday night in the Pacific Grove Jamboree. Sparked by a pair of talented quarterbacks, Dan Holman and Al Nishimura, the Padre jayvees scored at will against the outmanned Pacific Grove squad and established themselves as the team to beat in the CCAL B-division jayvee circuit. Carmel's varsity picked up 2 points on a safety while holding the strong PG varsity to a single touchdown.

In eight quarters of football, over 60 boys saw action for the Padres and each picked up valuable game experience for the league opener against Gonzales on September 30. Except for minor aches and pains, all the Carmel lads came through the first scrimmage in excellent shape and were ready to go in Monday's contact drills.

The terrific scoring splurge engineered by the Little Padres was a real team effort with Dennis Clark, Al Tegtmeier, Lynden Mahrt, and Dan Holman, putting points on the scoreboard. Top defensive players for the Padre jayvees were Claude Dechow, David Preve, Phil Zobel, Jim Markowitz, and Marlin Fluegge.

Rookie halfback Steve Fairfield was the bright spot in the Carmel varsity attack as he powered for consistent yardage through the rugged Breaker line. The little scooter put the Padres in scoring position several times but they couldn't get over the final stripe. Strong line play by Pete Morse, Ray Eaton, Clayton Hilbert, Bob Albee, Tony Belleci, and Terry Tweedie allowed the spirited Padres to play the Breakers on even terms for most of the three quarters.

Next action for the Padre gridders is slated for this Saturday when the Junipero Memorial jayvees clash with the Carmel limiteds in a 12:00 o'clock game and the Padre varsity plays the annual Red and Gray intrasquadder at 2:00 o'clock.

PADRE RED AND GRAY TILT SLATED FOR SATURDAY PM

Coach Hadley Hicks sends his Padre varsity football squad into a game-type scrimmage this Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock in the annual Red and Gray intrasquad game. The 34-man squad has been divided to provide equal competition with the accent on gaining valuable game experience. Regular CCAL officials will blow the whistles in the intrasquadder and the competition promises to be hard fought as the gridders battle for starting positions on the Big Red eleven.

Carmel's junior-varsity will play a 12:00 o'clock preliminary to the Red and Gray clash as it takes on Coach Bob Walthour's Junipero Memorial reserves. The Little Padres are riding high after their amazing showing in the Pacific Grove Jamboree and are anxious to unify their forces for an all-out effort against outside competition.

In the Red and Gray fracas, the Red squad will be manned by Terry Bishop, Mike Escondon, Bob Larson, Rick Baldwin, George Pollock, Charlie Davis, Jim Kelley, Dave Harris, Jack Hinchcliff, Bill Muscutt, Terry Tweedie, Dick Loffelmacher, Mike Taaffe, Rich Shively, Anthony Belleci, and Bob Wakefield. The Grays will rely on Dan Holman, Bob Palma, Steve Fairfield, Ted Leidig, Dave Terry, Lee Oleson, Ray Eaton, Bob Albee, Clayton Hilbert, Rowland Bories, Pete Morse, Jim Trivitte, Bart Whalen, Art Catron, Pete Conway, Barry Murphy, John Hackbarth, and Dave Harber.

Starting for the Padre jayvees will be Al Nishimura, Marlin Fluegge, Tom Faia, Dennis Clark, Phil Zobel, Lynden Mahrt, Claude Dechow, Grant Pollock, David Preve, Jim Markowitz, and Bill Hill. Because of his sterling performance in the PG Jamboree, Dan Holman, regular jayvee quarterback, has been moved up to the varsity for some action against the big boys.

CLEAT MARKS

Dan Albert's Monterey High football team takes on some tough opposition Friday night at the Monterey Peninsula College Stadium when the star-studded Los Altos High gang invades the Peninsula. Coached by Tom Burt, former Gilroy High mentor, Los Altos is picked to win the Santa Clara Valley League title. Since the SCVAL is one of the toughest leagues in Northern California, it appears the light Toreadores have chewed off a pretty big hunk for their first time out. The Toreadores showed good speed in the A-League Jamboree, but appeared to be short of heft in the forward wall. . The MPC Lobos open their season this Saturday night, entertaining the strong College of Sequoias eleven from Visalia. Coach George Porter has tested his squad with an intrasquad game and saw most of his gang in action against San Benito Junior College last Friday night. The Lobo reserves plus a few starters clipped San Benito, 24 to 0, and showed plenty of swift in the backfield and got some excellent passing from quarterbacks Skip Murray and Frank Bucher. College of Sequoias has a veteran team returning this season and figures to be too big for the small Lobo squad, but Coach Porter has a habit of making the going rather sticky for the opposition when his squad is the underdog... Word out of King City rates the 1961 Mustang varsity as the best team to represent the Blue & White for many years. With 220-pound Jim Mankin blowing over the opposition from the fullback position, the Mustangs ran roughshod over Gonzales High last Friday night in their season debut. King City takes on Paso Robles tomorrow night and a win over the perennial SLO League champions would definitely establish the Mustangs as prime favorites in the CCAL B-division... Santa Cruz High gained considerable prestige in the CCAL A-division last Friday night by outscoring the other four entries in the A-League Jamboree at Salinas Stadium. The Cardinals won with plenty to spare and showed a well-conditioned and poised football squad which exhibited mid-season form. The A-League Jamboree was a huge success under the streamlined rules which banned

WHAT'S DOING

D. D. Muir, your Telephone Manager in Carmel

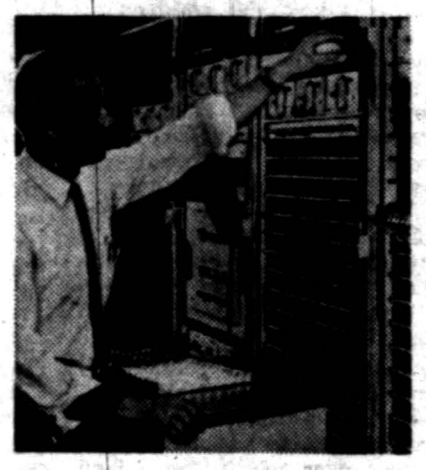

Last month I told you about Farm Interphone service, a new convenience we recently introduced for farmers. Busy farmers find it saves lots of time and makes life easier for the whole family.

With a Farm Interphone system, one can talk back and forth between the house and other farm locations. And you can also make telephone calls from either farm buildings or the house. When the wife wants to talk to her husband, all she does is pick up the phone and talk. She doesn't have to know where he is for her voice is carried over interphone loud speakers.

For more information about Farm Interphone service, just call our business office or see your telephone service man.

A new kind of phone system is now getting its first field test by the Bell System. It's an experimental Electronic Central Office designed to give you even faster, more versatile telephone service.

For example, if you were going out for the evening, you could have calls to your home transferred to wherever you're going.

Phone numbers you call frequently could be given abbreviated code numbers so you could reach them by dialing just two numerals.

This experimental Electronic Central Office is another example of the continuing search to make your telephone service still better in the years to come.

MAJOR CHANGES IN THE FORT ORD PHONE SYSTEM

Fort Ord and the Presidio of Monterey have a new kind of telephone service known as Direct Inward Dialing and a new phone number, 242-2211. The latter is known as All-Number Calling. The familiar FRontier 5-1511 has gone out of existence.

The new phone service permits calls to be dialed automatically from OUTSIDE the Post or Presidio directly to individual numbers within these Army installations instead of going through the main Fort Ord switchboard.

Concurrently with Direct Inward Dialing, a new all-numeral prefix, 242, will replace FR-5. All Fort Ord numbers may now be reached from off-post by dialing 242 followed by the four-digit extension number. Similarly, to call the Presidio of Monterey or US Army Language School activities, dial 242-8 followed by any three-digit extension number in use at the Presidio. Information service for Fort Ord and the Presidio is available at the Fort Ord switchboard (dial 242-2211).

Art On The Peninsula

By Mary Lindsay-Oliver

A unique and interesting exhibit at the Laky Galleries that had an invitational preview last Friday merits some special report since the artist, Irene Lagorio of Oakland, is a creator of definite genius and developed technique unlike any other. Her mosaics, jewel paintings and printed serigraphs are evidently inspired by not only nature's creatures and the products of earth, sea and air but also by history, mythology, astrology and the space of the universe. Experimenting first in Europe, Irene Lagorio is now widely known there besides being an exhibitor in South America, Canada, Japan, Boston, New York, Portland, Los Angeles, San Francisco, etc. One is so often appalled by the ugly meaningless of many so-called original and trumped-up designs, but Miss Lagorio's innate sense of beauty has produced gems that have forms, meaning and light, notably in her composition of the graceful Norse boats of Lief Ericson on their way among falling stars to discover America. The movement and harmonious depth of color combined with the variety of applied media is extraordinary; also in the Green-eyed Goddess and the Tower of The Moon Watcher, Pebbles that simulate jewels, bits of glass, tin, shells, sand and even starfish combined with overall glues and oil painting, positively scintilate with life and light. Miniatures of the courageous Icelanders and others are also cleverly inserted, while treatment of the mosaics and the difficult delicacy of the serigraphs attest to the beauty of this artist's conceptions that are possibly a modern reflection, but advanced, on early Byzantine art. There are other interesting paintings in the Laky Galleries, particularly some of Mrs. Laky's seascapes in fine feeling for space and color.

Another remarkable production of the past week end was Shakespeare's Taming of the Shrew in early Western costumes and manners under Frederick Rider's masterly casting and guidance at the Circle Theatre of the Golden Bough. Present on Sunday, I was surprised at the rhythm with which all seemed to speak and act, for the language of Shakespeare compared with today's English is not easy though its poetical sense carries it where prosaic utterance would fail, at least in much of The Taming of The Shrew. According to research it is claimed that the Bard of Avon did not create the original story, that some of it is inferior to his other plays. Be that as it may, the strong cast of local actors of talent, 13 men and four women, completely carried out the humor on a platform with steps to the floor like the one for Canadian Shakespeare Company at the Edinburgh Festival some years ago. It serves something more than a stage. Marcia Hovick as the turbulent Kate is thoroughly convincing as also is Nick Zanides, her husband, whose likewise individual methods manage to tame her. Rider as Lucentio and Nicola Harrison as Bianca did exceptional work as master and pupil, but not being asked to report this event, I cannot use enough space for elaboration on the whole and can only advise everyone to see it or any more Shakespeare that may be put on at The Golden Bough, which, I believe, would greatly have pleased Edward Kuster.

According to a report in the Musicial Courier, Dennis Vaughn, the Australian symphony conductor, has been investigating the archives of Riccordi, the Italian music publisher and finds, particularly in Verdi and Puccini scores, numerous alterations from the originals. In as much as Riccordi possesses most of the Grand Opera rights and is hoping for another 20 years of them, starting in 1962, the disclosure has stirred up the firm and they have closed down any further inspection.

Lady Field Gives Munras Memorial Museum To Mission

The Munras Memorial Museum at Carmel Mission Basilica was dedicated yesterday afternoon in ceremonies that included a Mass at 4:00 o'clock followed by a Blessing.

The museum, now open daily, is a gift of Lady Maria Antonia Field in memory of her great-grandfather, Esteban Munras, one of the early Spanish settlers of California. An adjunct to the existing museum at the Basilica, the Munras Memorial Museum is situated on the western side of the Basilica grounds next to the Convent. On exhibition are furnishings of early Spanish California homes, many of them from the Munras home in Monterey.

Following the dedication, Lady Field entertained at dinner for 22 guests at the Casa Munras in Monterey, originally the town house of the Munras family.

TALK ON FORMOSA

Dr. Pao Ch'en Lee, chairman of the Chinese-Mandarin department at the U.S. Army Language School, will be the speaker on Wednesday afternoon, 3:00 o'clock, at Carmel Foundation Town House.

Dr. Lee received his undergraduate degree at Yen Ching University in education, his Master's degree in music education at Oberlin College, and his educational doctorate at Columbia University. Before joining the Language School faculty, Dr. Lee served with the Chinese Ministry of Education, was Dean of the Chinese National Conservatory of Music, and was lecturer in Chinese at Yale University. He will speak on Formosa Today, illustrated by slides and music recordings. All interested are invited. Tea will follow the lecture.

Those wishing to see Mrs. Ruth Velissaratos' photographic abstractions will have the opportunity to see them at Town House through noon September 29, from 10:00 o'clock to 5:00 o'clock each week day.

Citizens Committee's Argument For Size Of Commercial Site Size

By C. W. Fisher
President Carmel Citizens Committee

There should be a limit to the bigness of buildings in the business district of Carmel. By bigness we mean ground area, height and bulk, all of which play a part in setting the tone of a community and guiding its future growth. Because of the importance of this matter to the citizens of Carmel, and because the Planning Commission on August 23, adopted a report to the effect that no such limits are needed, we take this means of making our position known to the City Council and to the public.

We have repeatedly urged both the Planning Commission and the City Council to establish a size limit for buildings in the commercial zones. And on May 21, 1961 we formally requested the Planning Commission, in writing, that before they acted upon any subcommittee report on this subject, the public be given ample time to read and study the report and express their views. In spite of this, the Planning Commission at its meeting on August 23, had the report read, voted upon and adopted in a matter of minutes without the public having had a chance to even read the report.

We now urge the City Council to enact some size limit for structures in the business district. State law specifically permits this. Sec. 65,800 of the Planning Law states

> ". . . the legislative body of any county or city by ordinance may (b) Regulate location, height, bulk, number of stories, and size of buildings and structures; the sizes of yards, courts and other open spaces; the percentage of a lot which may be occupied by a building or structure."

There is the authority. Why not use it?

Is there need for such regulation? We say emphatically YES! Because although our present ordinance limits height (35 ft.); requires landscaping (15% max.); prescribes setbacks, architectural or design control, and limits street frontage to not more than 80 ft. (not applicable to hotels or motels);—all these are not enough.

Examine well the drawing herewith. It shows what is legally permissible under our present ordinance, which has no size restriction. Say somebody buys a whole city block in Carmel, 200 ft. by 400 ft., for a big motel or for a department store. This is not too improbable. Look what Kaiser and Hilton and others are doing. As our drawings shows, he could put up an 80 unit motel on the block, consisting of two buildings with a ground area of 12,000 sq. ft. each. Total 24,000 sq. ft. Or, he could build a store as shown, with the limited frontage of 80 ft. on each of the four bounding streets, which would have a ground area of 31,100 sq. ft.

Now compare these figures with existing conditions in Carmel. Our average Ocean Avenue store occupies around 3,000 sq. ft. Purity and Pilot markets run about 5,000. Woolworth's is said to require 7,000 to 7,500 sq. ft. With but few exceptions, Carmel's business buildings run under 4,000 sq. ft. of enclosed floor area. Compare these figures with the legally permissible 24,000 or 31,000 sq. ft.

The comparison shows it is legal to construct business buildings 8 to 10 times bigger than we now have. This Carmel does not want. Such sizes are incompatible with the scale of Carmel and should not be allowed. And it is not only the facade or floor area that is objectionable, it is the whole bulk, with its introduction of the "big business' type of building and operation so foreign to the size of Carmel and its quiet residential character.

We cannot agree with the contention that a reasonable size limitation would encourage misuse or hamper the Design Control Committee. Design control can be equally effective on a small building or a large one, 80 ft. or 400 ft. front.

Finally, Carmel is "predominantly" a residential city where business is "subordinated" to its residential character. This is written into our Zoning Ordinance. If the English language means anything, this means that matters of this sort should be decided in accordance with the desires of the residents rather than by business interests. It is a formidable fact that the greater proportion of our business men live outside the city limits, and to that extent may not feel as residents do.

Very truly,
Carmel Citizens Committee

Letters . . .

September 18, 1961
P. O. Box 3842,
Carmel, Calif.

Dear Mrs. Cook:

A tip of the heart to all who participated in making the recent Sunday Afternoons at the Forest Theater so much fun to attend, so enriching to remember. I hope we may anticipate their becoming an annual event.

The serenity of pine-sheltered setting, with lovely melodies drifting thru this natural, woodsy amphitheatre, led us into green pastures of the spirit.

Since Herbert Heron founded Carmel's unique open-air theatre in 1910, presented there—with originality and artistry—have been humorous and tragic plays, masques, fantasies, satires, Biblical dramas, historical pageants, light opera—just about every form of entertainment . . . Shakespeare, swinging cape and sword, has strutted off stage to make way for pinafored children gracefully tripping thru Alice in Wonderland.

This series of a dozen delightful programs, with an average attendance of between 350 and 400 persons, met with responsive audience appeal. It also served as a showcase for local, retired—and even imported—talent. (The hills must have echoed with the skirl of bagpipes played by Scottish Highlanders kilting about in pleated plaids!)

Herb Miller's band revived for me hometown Sunday park concerts, when I thrilled to Sousa's stirring marches, while the peanut vendor's shrill whistle threatened to drown out the orchestra. We felt indebted to The Studio for sending costumed cast who performed a smart song-and-dance act from a current success. We admired dexterous feats of child acrobats whom Ed. Sullivan would have signed up lickety-split, before one dare to say "Jack Paar!"

Accomplished vocalists, violinists, a gay guitarist who sang in 'corn-husky' dialect — and other musicians—generously contributed their gifts in cherished Carmel tradition. It is from such as these that the music of living is kept in tune.

A tender touch was added by girlings perched on sideline banks, their pink and yellow and violet-flowered frocks billowing over eyelet-embroidered petticoats. Blooming young faces were radiant as they gazed, enchanted, at beautiful ballerinas. There was familyfied indulgence toward the small folk squirming in and out of seats. Unrebuked, they trotted about their busy ways.

During intermission we were privileged to explore the surrounding countryside's rustic charm, enjoy art-in-action-sculpture, lapidary, mosaics, weaving, and allied creative crafts, each artisan freely giving his time and talent for the pleasure of us all.

Surely a vote of thanks is due to those dedicated and trouble-smoothing assistants, such as Hazel McClellan, Patricia Hall, the Wurzmann family, among many, who helped the Carmel Arts Commission to present, Glenn Kearns to manage and Larry Rose to host these somewhat shyly heralded mid-summer serendipities. Our City Clerk's cheery informality and urbane wit turned stage waits into merriment, while his casual, over-the-footlights banter with Lupe Ramos and Bill O'Malley filled the chinks with chuckles.

It seems to me that no amount of professional contriving could have equalled the feeling of neighborly 'sharemanship' between artists and audiences as that so spontaneously expressed in Carmel's community venture — Sunday Afternoons at the Forest Theater.

With gratitude,
Eva L. Dunbar

FOREIGN STUDIES INSTITUTE FALL SEMESTER COURSES

Gaspard E. Weiss, president of the Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies, announces that courses will be offered in the two divisions of the school, languages and civilizations, and political arts, during the 1961-62 fall semester.

In the Division of Languages and Civilizations, beginners' courses in French, German, Italian, Russian, Chinese Mandarin and Japanese will be taught. Refresher courses in French and German for graduate and advanced undergraduate students will begin on October 9. Graduate courses will be offered in French, German, Italian Russian and Spanish.

Experimental courses in French will be open to elementary and high school children. Beginners' and second year French for elementary grade children at reading and non-reading levels also will be offered as well as second year high school French.

In the Division of Political Arts, a course open to graduates and advanced undergraduate students will be taught on the civilization of modern China, and graduate courses will deal with Soviet Russia and Latin America.

Further information may be obtained from the Institute.

About 16% of the warmth in your home can escape through window glass. Draperies that can be pulled across windows are an effective barrier against heat loss.

Heating dollars can go right up the chimney! You'll buy less heat if your fireplace damper fits tightly and is kept closed when fireplace is not in use.

What you can do now to reduce your heating bills this winter!

Remember that a yearly furnace check and filter replacement by a furnace man will help maintain furnace efficiency, and stretch your heating dollars.

Heat also escapes through loose-fitting windows and doors. Weather-stripping is a home improvement which stops chilling drafts as well as heat loss.

Heat can slip right through your ceilings and floors. Proper insulation can save you money by cutting your winter heating costs as much as 30%.

Concert Association Series Opens With Salkind Piano Duo

Milton and Peggy Salkind, a piano duo, will appear tomorrow evening in the first concert of the 1961-62 series presented by the Monterey Peninsula Concert Association. The concert will be presented at the Pacific Grove Junior High School Auditorium, Forest and Hillcrest, Pacific Grove (formerly the High School Auditorium—no change in location).

As a piano duo, the Salkinds specialize in the literature of music originally written for four hands, one piano. In addition, they have commissioned works themselves.

Both are graduates of the Juilliard School of Music in New York. Following graduation both studied with Edward Steuerman in New York. Critics from New York to San Francisco have acclaimed their artistry.

Succeeding concerts in the series will be Marni Nixon, soprano, October 16; Clebanoff Strings, a 20-piece orchestra ensemble, January 23; Caledonia: singers and dancers of Scotland, February 21, and John McCollum, tenor, March 3.

Attendance at concerts is limited to members of the association. All concerts begin at 8:15 p.m.

Mrs. Thomas A. Dooley, left, tells Leslie Emery of Carmel, center, of her gratitude to the people of the Monterey Peninsula who are raising $12,000 for a mobile health unit in memory of her son Dr. Tom Dooley. Listening is Dr. Verne E. Chaney, Jr., right, a local physician who worked with Dr. Dooley's MEDICO project in Laos.

The conversation took place at a reception Sunday at Spindrift restaurant. During the affair Richard Mack, chairman of the Peninsula fund drive committee for the new Dooley Foundation, presented Mrs. Dooley with a pledge card for $12,000 to send a mobile health unit from the Monterey Peninsula to help Tibetan refugees in India. His committee exhibited the unit at the reception. It was sent here by the manufacturer on credit until the necessary money to pay for it is raised.

Public Is Invited To World Affairs Free Talk On Communism

Communism As A Religion will be the subject of an address by Dr. Raoul Bertrand, of the political science department at San Francisco State College, for the World Affairs Council of the Monterey Peninsula tomorrow evening at Carmel High School auditorium. The address will be given with the co-sponsorship of the Carmel Adult School and is open to the public without charge.

This talk will launch the opening of the Fall lecture series on Communism. This past spring Dr. Bertrand won wide acclaim for a television series of lectures on Marxism. Dr. Bertrand, who received his master's degree from the University of British Columbia and his doctorate from the Sorbonne, has been a member of the faculty at the University of British Columbia, Willamette University, the University of Hamburg, and served as chairman of the department of philosophy at the American University of Beirut, Lebanon. In 1949-1950 he visited a number of German universities under the auspices of the Department of State, lecturing on American Philosophy. During the winter of 1956 he toured military bases as a lecturer for the Canadian Ministry of National Defense.

Dr. Bertrand has been widely published both in English and French on various aspects of social and political philosophy. He is a member of the Royal Institute of Philosophy, the American Philosophical Association, and the Philosophical Symposium of the American University at Beirut.

E. Buckmaster

Funeral services were held last Friday for Ernest Lawson Buckmaster, a former Carmel Valley resident who died in a Santa Cruz hospital on September 13 after a long illness. The Reverend Harris Pillsbury officiated at rites held in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea. Inurnment followed in Monterey Columbarium.

Mr. Buckmaster was a painter and decorator. Six months ago he moved to Soquel with his wife, Barbara, who survives him. He was born on June 6, 1906, in Nome, Alaska.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two sisters living in Carmel. They are Mrs. Doris Brand and Mrs. Grace Fontes. Another sister, Mrs. Beth Knox of Seattle, Washington, also survives him as well as a brother, William Buckmaster of Seattle, and two nieces and two nephews.

Friends wishing to honor the memory of Mr. Buckmaster may do so in the form of donations to the Monterey County Cancer Research Society, Box 1028, Monterey.

Paul Mortuary was in charge of funeral arrangements.

Louise Wheeler

Miss Louise A. Wheeler, a retired teacher who had lived here for the past 13 years, died following a brief illness on Saturday in the home she shared with a friend, Ann V. Seaman, at Carmelo Street and Eleventh Avenue. She was 73 years old.

Miss Wheeler last taught at Montclair Academy in New Jersey. Her active teaching career extended over a 35-year period.

She is survived by a sister, Miss Eleanor P. Wheeler of New York City.

Private funeral services were held on the day of her death in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea.

Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

A substantial foundation for assured thought and action will be pointed out at Christian Science services Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon on "Reality" is the Golden Text from the Bible (Phil. 4):

"Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."

A correlative citation from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states (p. 275): "All substance, intelligence, wisdom, being, immortality, cause, and effect belong to God. These are His attributes, the eternal manifestations of the infinite divine Principle, Love. No wisdom is wise but His wisdom; no truth is true, no love is lovely, no life is Life but the divine; no good is, but the good God bestows."

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

As of this Monday, this library is opening a half hour earlier in the mornings, making the weekday hours 10:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. The Sunday hours of 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. remain the same. This makes the library open to the public for 70 hours a week. The Board of Library Trustees decided upon the earlier opening hour at their September meeting, their decision being based partly upon the fact that so many people make a morning trip to the post office around 10:00 in the morning and then come to the library, only to be forced to wait a while on the front steps. Wait no more, after 10:00, that is.

Beginning October 1, if all goes well, we shall start receiving the New York Times on a daily basis. We have subscribed to the Sunday edition for many years. Another new periodical on our list is a news magazine called U.S.A. The editors hope to produce a news-in-depth monthly, as contrasted to the various weekly news media, which cannot interpret the news to any great extent because of the speed of their coverage. At least, that is what the editors of the new monthly say.

Another new periodical is Show Business Illustrated, which started in September for us. Just when it started for others, we do not know, but it was only a short while ago. It comes oftener than once a month. Our subscription is with our dealer, and we will buy it as it comes out, until the subscription gets under way. It is an up to the minute magazine about all phases of show business, including radio and television.

We are trying a new thing in this library in the matter of foreign language dictionaries. We never seem to have enough in the three most often required languages, that is French, German, and Spanish. So we are ordering them in paperback bindings, six of each, and hope that these eighteen dictionaries will help fill the gap. The obvious answer to the problem is that patrons buy their own paperback dictionaries, and they have to do it if these do not supply the need.

An article by George Swartz in the London Times discusses the alarming proliferation of the publishing industry, and how books must be made more perishable or we shall be buried beneath them. Perhaps the tendency of the public to mutilate books and magazines is the answer, at least so far as libraries are concerned. We lost several magazines in just that way last month.

We have new books as well as new magazines and new hours of the day. Consult the list on the bulletin board.

Lacking a parking lot, it may be that what this library needs is more car-pools for patrons. People often tell us that they are unable to come to the library as often as they once did because they cannot find parking space. If certain patrons cooperated by bringing several of their neighbors when they came to the library, parking space for the one car might be easier to find, and all would benefit. Not too original a thought, but it works for other situations, so why not library visiting.

This week we have a new book which brought to mind the word sumptuous. The ever-ready dictionary defines sumptuous as costly, luxuriously fine, or elegant. Sumer: the Dawn of Art, by Andre Parrott is all of these and more. It is beautiful, authoritative, and interesting.

Andre Malraux is editing a series of books which are planned to present the arts of every civilization and era. This is the first volume of the series. The author, Dr. Parrott, is curator-in-chief of the Louvre, and here he describes the rise and fall of Sumerian art and culture. Their art was forceful rather than graceful, its roots in religion, and sacred. This book is an example of fine bookmaking, with beautiful plates, many of them printed in gold.

Because it is costly, the book will be placed in a locked case. Regular patrons of this library are welcome to borrow it. When returning it, please hand it to an attendant at the desk and do not drop it in the book return slot. Sumer: the Dawn of Art, has been purchased as part of the Dene Denny memorial collection.

Those of you who heard Helen Holdredge interviewed on radio the other evening, will recall how deeply involved she is in research on California history, especially the early history of San Francisco. Her earlier books, Mammy Pleasant, and The Woman in Black, were firmly rooted in fact. Her latest book, called The House of the Strange Woman, is also factual and according to Mrs. Holdredge she has material enough for more books along the same line. This might be termed the scandalous doings of the early inhabitants of San Francisco. Mrs. Holdredge does not write too well, but she has the facts, Ma'am!

Pine Needles

Sandra and Howard Married

Marriage vows were recited in the chapel of the Church of the Wayfarer on Saturday by Sandra Jean Smith and Howard Taggart. Dr. K. Fillmore Gray officiated at the ceremony.

The young couple's parents are Mrs. Ellen Smith of Medford, Oregon, and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Taggart of Pebble Beach.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Ivan Thompson of Durkee, Oregon. She wore a white lace sheath dress with fingertip sleeves and a chapel train of peau de soie. Her shoulder-length veil was held by a crown and she carried a cascade of white rosebuds surrounding a white orchid, also an imported lace handkerchief.

Mrs. Joe Brittain of Midland, Texas, the bridegroom's sister, was matron of honor. Best man was Don Leidig of Carmel and Los Angeles.

Mrs. Smith attended her daughter's wedding in a green brocade sheath dress worn with beige accessories and a pink cymbidium orchid corsage.

Mrs. Taggart, mother of the bridegroom, was clad in a brown satin gown, matching accessories and a green orchid corsage.

The reception following the ceremony was held at the Taggart home in Pebble Beach. A creamy white linen cloth edged with satin bands covered the bride's table which had a white begonia centerpiece. The living room was decorated with pine boughs, evergreen magnolia and nightingale and white chrysanthemums.

The punch bowl,encircled by begonias, was presided over by Mrs. Willis Booker of Fresno. Coffee was served by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Ivan Thompson, and Mrs. B. J. Wheelan of Seattle, the bridegroom's aunt, served the tiered wedding cake.

The bride graduated from high school in Baker, Oregon, then attended Oregon State University. She was formerly employed by an airlines company in San Francisco and Washington, D. C. and is now working in a Los Angeles bank.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Carmel High School and Stanford University, did graduate work at the University of Southern California. He is a petroleum engineer employed by an oil company in Inglewood.

When she left on her wedding trip, the bride was wearing an imported green brocade sheath with matching short jacket and black accessories. She and her husband are now at home at 1902½ Nolden Street in Los Angeles.

Carlsons See Washington Life

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome E. Carlson scarcely had time to greet Carmel friends after a visit with Mrs. Carlson's son, Pierre Salinger, President Kennedy's press secretary, in Washington, D.C. before they left for a ten-day trip to Ensenada, Bajai California, from which they have just returned.

They stayed at Pierre Salinger's home in Falls Church, Virginia, while they were in the Washington area. Two other of Mrs. Carlson's sons were also Pierre's guests. They were Herbert Salinger, principal of Ridgeview Junior High School in Napa who flew East to join the family reunion, and Richard Salinger, school system coordinator in Wilton, Connecticut.

Mrs. Carlson attended two of Pierre Salinger's press briefings in his Washington office, also a party in the Rose Garden at the White House attended by President Kennedy.

Four days after she arrived at Falls Church, Mrs. Salinger received a personal telephone call from Mrs. Johnson, wife of Vice President Lyndon Johnson, inviting her to a luncheon in the Capitol. Guests asked to meet Mrs. Carlson included ten of the top women journalists in the Nation's capital and four California women. The latter were Mrs. Engle, wife of Senator Clair Engle, Mrs. Edward Day, wife of the Postmaster General, Mrs. Katie Louchheim, consultant on women's activities for the State Department, and Ruth Finney, nationally syndicated columnist.

During the luncheon, Mrs. Johnson introduced Mrs. Carlson to several U.S. Senators who passed the group of ladies as they left the Senate dining room.

After luncheon, Mrs. Carlson went to the office of Vice President Johnson who was receiving an official visit from Sir Abukar Tasawa Balewa, Prime Minister of Nigeria. Mrs. Carlson had an opportunity to tell the prime minister of her interest in the Niger River during her girlhood. While Mrs. Carlson was Mrs. Johnson's guest, Mr. Carlson lunched as a guest of the Vice President.

The Carlsons were asked to several ambassadorial receptions in Washington. One of the most interesting, Mrs. Carlson reports, was given by all the African ambassadors. Almost two-thirds of these gentlemen were from French colonies and Mrs. Carlson enjoyed speaking to them in her native language, French. With her son, Herbert, she attended a State Dinner for President Chang of the Republic of China and Mrs. Chang. On this occasion, she remarks, she met many persons who to her, previously, had been only persons read about in newspapers.

Also in the East, Mr. and Mrs. Carlson visited Williamsburg, Jamestown and Richmond, Virginia, where they were the guests of James Ambler Johnston, a recent Carmel visitor, at the Commonwealth Club. On this journey they were invited by owners to see several Southern plantations, a delightful experience shared by Mark Salinger, Pierre Salinger's oldest son who was traveling with them.

Their Eastern excursion included a trip to Connecticut, too, and the Carlsons were sorry they had to leave before a musical comedy, written by their daughter-in-law, Adele, wife of Richard Salinger, had its premiere performance in Wilton. Mrs. Salinger is the mother of five children, the youngest six months old. While in Falls Church, however, they did see new pottery created while attending workshop sessions by Nancy, the wife of Pierre Salinger.

A member of the family they missed was Suzanne, Pierre Salinger's daughter, who was in France for the summer as the guest of Monsieur Rene Brouillet, new French ambassador to Austria, and Madame Brouillet.

Of her Washington experiences, Mrs. Carlson says, "Everyone treated us with warmth. This made me proud and happy as I realized this attitude reflected regard for my son, Pierre, and his work."

Baxters Return To Carmel

Former Carmel residents, Mrs. Rose Baxter and her son, James Baxter, have been visiting here this week. Since leaving Carmel they have been living in San Diego. They recently sold their hotel in that city and are now contemplating settling in Carmel again.

Editorial . . .

dual donations of money, labor, materials, and professional skills of people of the city and the school district. It occupies land which belongs to the city and for which the youth center pays $1.00 per year. The auditorium was built through funds contributed by the Lucy Stern Foundation when a director learned of the project through a happy coincidence, which is one of the treasured experiences of the romance of the building of the center, a part of the love story of the community for its high school age kids, which we will try to tell in detail, in a series of articles, later.

The youth center received Crosby funds two years ago when an extension was built on the auditorium and also to pay off the mortgage.

Since the center was built on this basis, in response to the request of the kids themselves for a clubhouse of their own, those who had built it, all of the then community, were anxious that it be kept forever as a gift of the adults to the kids of this special age group, and that the young people have as large a part of managing it themselves as possible. This thinking was the inspiration of the charter which protects the property rights of the young people. Under city or school district jurisdiction it would become a public property open to any public use the community might wish to put it.

The carpenters, plumbers, electricians, painters, workmen in all fields who gave their time and skilled work; the contractors who donated materials and the persons who gave their money, "made no bones about it" that they were not building a community center, or a school facility, but a clubhouse for the high school age youth.

It was first thought that the city should provide for the director's salary but since the community wanted all of the high school students to be eligible for membership in the center, both city council and school board agreed that the money should come from the broader tax base. There was no objection to this solution. The same people who built the center would be paying for its operation out of a very small portion of their school taxes, instead of out of city taxes, and there are more people paying school taxes than city taxes.

Everybody thought it was a fine solution and everybody now who was around then, still does. And newcomers generally think it's a just and sensible arrangement, too, when they understand.

The reason for the "non-certificated" director will be explained in this column next week.

Meanwhile, we assure you that the choice of a non-certificated director was intentional, a decision made after a great deal of thought by a number of responsible people, and if the non-certificated director they chose had not been available they would have set out to find someone else who answered their special specifications, one of which was non-certification.

—Wilma Cook.

Durell Decker Off To Europe

Durell Decker will leave San Francisco to fly to New York on Tuesday, continue by air to Luxembourg, then go by train to Berne, Switzerland, to meet a friend with whom she plans to spend the next six months travelling about Europe.

Durell graduated from Carmel High School in 1959. She attended Willamette University for a year, then transferred to Hartnell College and graduated with distinction last June. This summer she has been working in Carmel. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Decker of Corral de Tierra.

Mrs. Vachulka

Mrs. Rose Marie Vachulka died Tuesday evening in a local hospital after a brief illness. With her husband, Matthew P. Vachulka, she had come recently from Riverside, Illinois, to visit her two sons, Melvin Dick of Pebble Beach and Richard Dick of Carmel Valley.

Mrs. Vachulka was born on September 4, 1888, in Chicago, Illinois.

In addition to her husband and sons, she is survived by a brother, Jerry Rezny of La Grange, Illinois; two sisters, Mrs. Anna Kosik of Hinsdale, Illinois, and Mrs. Beatrice Hinchliffe of La Grange, Illinois; five grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Private family funeral services will be held in Mission Mortuary at 11:00 o'clock Saturday morning with Dr. K. Fillmore Gray of the Church of the Wayfarer, officiating.

FIVE MILES South of Carmel, six miles to Pebble Beach, spectacular estate situated on a nine acre cypress studded peninsula whose rugged shore juts out into the Pacific Ocean, affording a magnificent unobstructed panoramic view of the Carmel coast. The residence is reached by an imposing paved driveway with turn around and parking area near the three-car stone garage. It consists of a two story English manor type stone house of thirteen rooms and six baths. A beautiful garden and gorgeous terrace overlooking the ocean within a ten foot stone wall, which insures complete privacy, there are beautifully landscaped gardens, a green house and above all, a secluded and protected white sand beach.
THERE IS NO comparable property in the area and no description could do it justice. It must be seen to be appreciated. Shown by appointment only.

time-outs and saw all the teams hustling to get in extra plays. Played before a full house at the spacious Salinas High Stadium, the Jamboree provided a neat bundle to help defray the expenses of the Coast Counties Athletic League this year . . . Accurate-passing Danny Holman, until Friday Carmel junior-varsity quarterback, put on such a flashy show of passing and signal-calling in the PG Jamboree that he was immediately elevated to the varsity squad. The slender junior is considered the finest sure passer in the B-division and his selection of plays was faultless in the Jamboree. Dan will be seen in action with the varsity in this Saturday's Red & Gray scrimmage.

JACK NICKLAUS BREEZES TO EASY WIN IN NATIONAL AMATEUR

Playing the tricky Pebble Beach Course as though he owned it, stocky Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, had an easy time disposing of all his opposition in the 61st National Amateur Golf Championship played during the past week at Pebble Beach. The Ohio State power-swinger was 17 strokes under par for the 136 holes required to wrap up the title, and off his performance in the Amateur, appears capable of handling most of the pros traveling the money circuit. This is the second time the Intercollegiate Champ has won the National Amateur and he most likely will win a few more if he continues to consort with the amateurs.

Jack's opponent in Saturday's 36-hole finals was Dudley Wysong, a scrappy smooth-swinger from McKinney, Texas, who gained the finals by defeating Ireland's popular Joe Carr in Friday's tense semi-final match. Wysong gave it a real try in the finals, holding his poise and showing real courage while being overpowered by the long-hitting Nicklaus. Down 4 holes at the end of the first 18, Wysong ran out of holes at the trap-surrounded twelfth and congratulated the new National Amateur Champion.

Before leaving the Peninsula, Nicklaus indicated a desire to play in the Bing Crosby Pro-Amateur slated for January. The colorful Buckeye belter would be a fine addition to the Crosby and his mastery of the long Pebble Beach layout would make him a welcome partner for any pro.

The Bishops Have New Enthusiasm, Literacy Project

Joyce Bishop's husband, "Bill" to the people of Carmel who have known him during his 27 years residency, brings to the literacy problem a special understanding since he himself is a one-time alien, born in Greece.

"Spanish is my choice, though," he says. "Nothing sounds so good as when it's said in Spanish." Mr. Bishop, who took an intensive course in Spanish, is still studying the language in Monterey Peninsula College. Both Bishops hope the time will come when a LARK center can take shape possibly in the Salinas Valley. A knowledge of Spanish could help establish rapport with agricultural workers seeking to learn to read and write English. A workshop is slated at Gilroy, according to Mrs. Bishop. One center is already operating in San Jose.

LARK, which stands for Literacy for Adults and Related Knowledge but actually evolved from a happy response of a newly literate woman who said her heart was singing like a lark because of her unexpected chance at schooling, is beyond question a project both deserving and interesting, but the Bishops themselves are also interesting.

Slim, auburn-haired Joyce spent much of her life near Boston, where she attended schools, including the School of Practical Art. During the past ten years in Carmel she has been a silk screen artist. When she completes her own plans for producing a literacy text from a controlled vocabulary for use by the LARK system, it will contain her own art work.

That Bill Bishop left Greece at all seems remarkable since he was born in one of the world's loveliest "cradles," a small village near Delphi in the foothills of Mt. Parnassus. He himself says, "There's nothing more beautiful than a Greek island. Anyone looking for peace would surely find it there." Yet leave he did, at the age of fifteen.

The next several decades he spent in business in Brisbane, Australia. "I was in partnership in the grocery business at 17, and I wasn't very tall. People had the idea I was even younger, just a child." Since 1924 he has been in this country, first in New York, then Washington and Akron, before coming to Carmel in 1934 where he was for many years proprietor of Bishop's Restaurant.

For many years, too, he sang with the Bach Festival chorus but only his friends know he's a violinist. "I'm not really," he says. "But I used to enjoy playing. Back on that Greek island I was once scolded for dreaming out a window, listening to a man across the street play the violin. I suppose that's why I had to learn to play myself."

Since the literacy movement represented here by the Bishops subsists only on voluntary donations and operates only with a faculty of volunteer workers, Joyce and Bill are always eager to hear from people who might be interested in becoming LARK workers.

"It's a field especially suited to retired teachers," Joyce said, "but certainly not limited to them. One can learn to teach literacy but already knowing how to teach helps, of course."

"It's a chance to communicate with people we wouldn't otherwise have the chance to communicate with," Mr. Bishop said. "President Huber (of Monterey Peninsula College) said the other night that the highest test of education is the ability to communicate with the largest possible segment of humankind."

Questions about LARK can be addressed to the Bishops at P. O. Box 674, Carmel, or to Frances Vejtasa, 1616 Park Ave., San Jose, president of the California LARK organization and co-editor of the magazine with Mrs. Bishop.

Memories of Robert Louis Stevenson are shared by two former Colton Hall pupils who gathered at a reunion last week. Josie Simoneau Fussell is the daughter of Jules Simoneau, proprietor of the restaurant where Stevenson took his meals when a Monterey resident. Louis Adolfo Sanchez of Oakland is the "little Louis Sanchez on the beach at Monterey", Stevenson's phrase in one of his poems.

Councilman Eben Whittlesey, former president of the Monterey County Symphony Association, says he thinks that this season's symphony opening concert should include the Mother Goose Suite. And he doesn't mean to ruffle any feathers, either.

A gift of 1,800 acres of land stretching for two miles on both sides of Highway One from Partington Creek to Anderson Creek was presented as a public park to the State of California on Friday by Mrs. Helen Hooper Brown of Big Sur on behalf of herself and her late husband, Lathrop Brown.

Governor Edmund L. Brown and Joseph C. Houghtelling, chairman of the State Park Commission, accepted the land, which is to be named the Julia Pfeiffer Burns State Park, from Charles A. De Turk, chief of the Division of Beaches and Parks, acting for Mrs. Brown who is traveling in the South Pacific. The park will honor the memory of Julia Pfeiffer Burns, Big Sur pioneer.

The two miles of coastal scenery is to be preserved unmarred by construction or improvements other than rest rooms or a park station on the west side of the highway. Some camping facilities will be provided east of Highway One. Hiking trails through a deep canyon with stands of redwood trees will give access to beach areas. A museum may be located in the building on the property now known as Waterfall House.

Construction of the new Anderson Canyon Creek bridge on State Sign Route One (Cabrillo Highway) in Monterey County has progressed to the point where traffic has been routed onto the new bridge.

Approaches to the new bridge have not been completed, however, and motorists will be forced to drive on base material consisting of crushed rock aggregate. Travelers are advised to observe extreme caution when driving through this area as work is still being done on the roadway. Large highway equipment will be in operation adjacent to the roadbed.

The new Anderson Creek bridge is a 431 foot arch type span and is constructed upstream from the existing bridge. Demolition of the existing bridge will get under way shortly. Thomas Construction Company of Fresno is the contractor on the project.

report on fallout shelter construction in Carmel. Building Inspector Floyd Adams will also give a report containing information on such shelters garnered Wednesday at a meeting on this matter attended by representatives from other communities.

Requests to build shelters have been received by Mr. Adams. No provision for such construction is contained in the building ordinance. Next week planning commissioners hope to formulate recommendations for the city council permitting shelter construction in the city. A meeting on shelters between commissioners and Edward De Mars of the county planning staff was set for October 3.

They will also act on a setback variance for Vivian Culver for a steep lot on the west side of Torres Street between First and Pico.

Mrs. Crofton

Mrs. Alfred C. Crofton, mother of Miss Elizabeth Crofton of Carmel, died on Tuesday in her home at Camino Real and Thirteenth Avenue. She had lived in Carmel for 17 years. Before this her home was in Chicago, Illinois, for many years. She was born in Wheeling, West Virginia.

In addition to her daughter in Carmel, she leaves another daughter, Mrs. Abel Stevens of Pasadena, two grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Private memorial services will be announced later by Paul Mortuary.

Those wishing to honor the memory of Mrs. Crofton may do so in the form of donations to the American Cancer Research Society, Box 1028, Monterey, or to the Monterey County Heart Association, Box 1329, Monterey.

OES BIRTHDAY PARTIES

Members of Carmel Chapter, No. 581, Order of the Eastern Star, held their tenth birthday party on September 13 in the Masonic Temple. Honored were officers of Castroville Chapter, No. 580, which is one day older than the Carmel chapter. Castroville OES officers conducted the Carmel birthday ceremonies. Mrs. Dorothy Ashley was in charge of banquet room arrangements which included garden flower decorations and birthday cakes. A candle topped each piece of cake served to the members.

Friday, following the Carmel celebration, Carmel OES officers traveled to Castroville to conduct OES tenth birthday ceremonies there. The Carmel OES Chapter was honored at this party.
